London, Nov. 22.—"The country to is sound and it is determined to see this war through to the end," said the Earl of Derby in talking to the American correspondents today regarding the British recruiting campaign, of which he is in charge. "The people are as determined to carry the war through as they were in-August of last year and we will win it."

That much Lord Derby said he was willing to affirm as the result of the case had not been realized.

The fact that Great Britain primarily was a naval power with the largest navy in the world and that the navy was doing all that had been was of the country which he had been managing. More Jefinite information he was obliged to withhold untrying to discourage enlistments.

ADMIRAL LITTLE

RETARY DANIELS DISAP-PROVES PINDINGS OF THE K-2 COURT-MARTIAL

IST A. P. NIGHT WIRE!

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Secretary Daniels today disapproved the findings of the general court-martial which acquitted Rear-Admiral William N. Little, refired, of charges of negligence in connection with his duty as inspector during the construction of the submarine K. 2. No new trial, however, will be ordered.

A statement issued by the department said that in view of the expense of further proceedings and the admitted personal and official integrity of Admiral Little, the findings merely had been disapproved without reconvening the court.

"An important sidelight upon the attitude of Rear-Admiral Little in the performance of his duties as inspective," said the statement, "is shown by he testimony of Lieut. Moses, wherein he states that Rear-Admiral Little was not easily approachable and that he, Mr. Moses, was made to feel that his opinions and ecommendations would preferably to made to Rear-Admiral Little's assistants; that this attitude is furthernore excapified in Rear-Admiral Little's own testimony wherein he resers to Moses' representations conserving the battery as 'kicke' and wherein he states that they were kicking all the time about one thing or another."

estate of George Townsend, millionaire County & St. Joseph Railway, brought a suit in equity here today to determine the rightful heirs to the Townsend fortune. Townsend committed suicide in July, 1913, during an attack of temporary insanity. Under the terms of his will, dated 1906, the estate was bequeathed to his brothers and sisters. Mrs. Schaden, for many years Townsend's confidential secretary, was appointed administratrix. Mrs. Margaret Hackman Townsend, the widdow, who was married to the millionaire in April, 1913, was not provided for in the will. Prior to his marriage, Townsend, it is alleged, made an agreement settling $30,000 on his wife and agreeing to adopt her two children. The parentage of the children. according to attorneys, will enter into the suit.

The estate consists of an interest in the railway Townsend built, which is capitalized at $37,000,000, and realty holdings in Kansas City and elsewhere.

Mellen represented the former President as having in 1907 advised the purchase of the Boston and Maine with the reservation, however, that "If you do wrong you need not come back to me."

The advice was given after Mellen had had an interview, at Roosevelt's suggestion, with Franklin K. Lane chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and explained to him that there was no danger of the Boston and Maine "falling into the hands of allens" if the New Haven did not take it. By alleha, the witness said, he meant the Canadian Pacific or Grand Trunk railroad of Canada, and that Chairman Lane agreed with him that such an eventuality was dangerous from a military point of view. The testimony was brought out after R. L. Batta, attorney for the sovernment, had read into the record an exchange of correspondence, subsequent to the interview, between Mellen and M. H. Whitney of Boston.

"I have always thought it possible that the Little Pather at Washington might want to get his finger in the ple," wrote Whitney in reference to the Boston and Maine. "in which case if it should happen before the public had become reconciled to the change it might result in infinite harm to all your interests."

"The Washington situation." Mellen wrote in reply, "I have, I think, completely cared for. One never knows for certain about these matters, but the ground has been carefully ploughed and every chance of trouble considered and I think eliminated."

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 22.—Preliminary steps were taken today for the taking over of the defunct California Development Company's Imperial Valley irrigation plant by the Imperial Irrigation district of Imperial Valley, at a conference held in this city between directors of the irrigation district and attorneys of the Southern Pacific Company.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—A fire occurred today in the basement of the annex of the Bon Marche, one of the largest of the Bon Marche, one of the largest department stores of Paris. It was crowded with shoppera, but there was no panic. Ninety wounded soldiers in a temporary hospital installed in the building were removed hastily by firemen. There were no injuries.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 22.—When Herman Harold Smith, aged 23, or Los Angeles, arrested Sunday while wandering through the hallways of a hotel, was at police headquarters he told a remarkable story in explaining the manner in which he received two scars on each hand between the thumb and forefinger.

He said that when he was 4 years old he traveled throughout the Southwest as a juvenile with an opera company. One night, he said, after a performance in Albuquerque, N. M., he wandered away from the remainder of the company and was picked up by a band of Indians, who, he said, were holding a religious feast outside the town.

Although too young at the time to remember the details, Smith said he was placed upon a cross by the Indians, who prepared to crucity him, He said they had broken the flesh of his hands with nails, when a company of the Sixteenth United States Cavalry rushed into the camp, routed the Indians and rescued him.

Before being questioned he had been fined $50 and costs on the charge of ioitering. When Detective Lieutenant Love interrogated him, he said he was a friend of Gov. Johnson of California, had an income, was a former student at Berkeley and was traveling about the country.

Committees were out yesterday in many of the suburban cities of the county starting subscription lists. Cash is now being collected by the Chamber of Commerce with a view to turning over about $40,000 to San Diego December 1.

President Davidson of the exposition is expected to pass through Los Angeles on his return from San Prancisco some time today. He has been north to sign up some of the forein exhibits for San Diego next year. His return will probably be the signal for general activity on the part of the new exposition board.

rate with the merit of the wares and the warmth of the welcome.

The Tower of Jewels reproduced in precious stones and for the purpose of celebrating the holiday opening of a big jewelry house! It is at Nordinger's, a monument to skill, patience and judgment as to detail and finish.

Many months Louis G. Sherman, the window decorator at Nordlinger's, planned and gathered the materials with which to consummate this work of art. He visited the San Francisco exposition for the express purpose of observing the great tower which forms the centerpiece at the fair. He has reproduced in exact effect, together with the kicsks in the foreground and the Court of Abundance glimpsed through the arch—one of the most wonderful pictures seen at the great show. The perfection of harmony in coloring, which is the keynote of the exposition, is also sounded here—even to the columns of turquoise—and the proportions are exact, on a scale of one-eighth inch to the foot. Charming are the small Japanese trees of gnarled and twisted cedar, each in a miniature jardiniere—all the trees actual and growing. These wonderful little trees, so like those upon the exposition grounds, are from a local nursery. Upon the greensward, in front of the tower, rare gem productions are abloom, adding their luster to that of the gems set on the tower. Small searchlights are trained to bring out the full beauty and unless seen at night, the werk cannot be fully appreciated.

It was annual opening day at the house of Brock & Co. yesterday and there was an air of festive welcome which seemed to make one feel at home. This is, in fact, called the most striking characteristic of Brock's.

Also, with lines across the city, are we to be held to certain defined functions by the city, or are we to be allowed to grow as the city does?"

CONSTRUCTION DETAILS.

Assuming that the city's condemnation means the ousting of the Edison Company, bag and baggage, from the city, Arthur R. Kelley, a valuation engineer for the concern gave some interesting details of the contingent construction that would be involved. He also started to volunteer estimates of cost, but as the legal end of the case was specifically under consideration, it was suggested that the figures need not be revealed.

According to Mr. Kelley, the Edison Company faces the contingency of carrying the 60,000-volt line, now connecting the Kern River generating plants and Los Angeles station, No. 3, 1700 and point near Newhall along the foothills to east of Pasadena and the preliminary examinarity for Wednesday. DRAMATIZING THEMSELVES.

The execution of Joseph Hillstrom at Salt Lake City for the crime of murder was followed by a sensational effort on the part of his anarchist comrades to enshrine the dead man in the heart of martyrdom. His body was sent to that arch conspirator, W. D. DICTURES AND HONESTY. Thousands of people try their hand at scenario writing. Some of them submit good ideas where the many fall. A majority of unknown writers complain that their work is rejected and then produced in a alightly altered form. If this policy is con-tinued it will result in the distortion of such eas as are offered and in the strangling of the public as a source of inspiration and production. Scenario writers have no legal status under the copyright laws and are at the mercy of those to whom they take their wares. It is to the interesting producers to see that their scenario departments do not misappropriate the works of outsiders through their zeal and jealousy, but that they deal honestly both as to pagents and they deal honestly both as to payment and to credit with all writers who have anything of value to offer. The big companies pay enormous salaries to some of their actors and spend considerable fortunes in providing adequate sets for their photo plays. They must show an equal respect for the idea which makes their triumphs of the screen possible. Greed killed the stage and it will destroy pictures if anything so significant as the story side of the work is

PREPAREDNESS.
In all discussions about military preparedness nobody has proposed a preparation for offensive warfare. The entire argument has been directed toward the necessity of preparation for defense. Yet in the methods of preparation which are recommended there is no discernible difference between preparation for offensive and preparation for defensive war.

The American people have no wish to enter upon a war of conquest. They have no craving to acquire contiguous territory, either north or south, or to possess any more territory beyond sens. All they ask is freedom of the seas for their commerce and that no nation shall violate their national sovereignty or their international rights.

In preparing for either defensive or of-fensive warfare the problem is to convert military resources into military strength. There was recently printed in the Infan-try Journal an article from the pen of Lieut. G. A. Lynch. He says:

"A modern war between two powers separated by the sea can be analyzed into two essential phases:

"I. A struggle for the command of the sea.

"2. An invasion of the nation defeated at sea by the land forces of its op-ed at sea by the land forces of its oppoment.

"This order is not invariable. The sequence may be inverted: or the two operations may be coincident. A nation confident of its ultimate ability to obtain command of the sea may invade its opponent's territory without waiting for a naval decision. A nation weak on the sea may surrender the command of it without contest. A nation weak in land forces may be unable to take advantage of a naval victory. But the nation that would reap the full fruits of victory or avoid the bitterest consequence of defeat must be prepared for both operations."

tions."

The "preparedness" of the United States must be based, not upon minor or local issues, but upon the greatest military problem with which it is likely to be confronted.

As Lieut Lynch suggests, our best policy is one of delay; it should consist in the maintenance of a military force sufficient in size and character to delay our opponent until the nation can be mobilized in arms.

The sea is the great roadway, and the only roadway, that connects us with all the nations of Europe and Asia, except Great Britain, and the construction of an adequate fleet of submarines would make it practically impossible for an enemy fleet to capture any of our Atlantic or Pacific or Gulf seaports or to reduce the fortresses which now guard them. A dozen submarines stationed in New York Harbor and warned by wireless of the approach of a hostile fleet could, before an enemy fleet reached within cannon range of Sandy Hook, torpedo and sink every ship. Submarines torpedo and sink every ship. Submarines have in fact rendered all other coast de-"An invader who possesses himself of this section can only be dislodged by an advance along one of these three routes. If we permit the enemy to gain control over all these routes, we may expect that he will endeavor to block all the avenues of approach to our subsequent advance; that he will destroy railroad track and the highly-vulnerable trestle and bridge work which bear our railroads over the chaşms of the mountains and whose reconstruction would be a matter of years; and that he will establish himself in a position to oppose our advance with all probability of success. It is, therefore, of the greatest importance that at least one of these routes be kept open with a view to the assumption of the offensive by our volunteer army. Unless this is done, it is greatly to be feared that this part of our country will be lost beyond all hope of recovery."

A European army would surely never attempt to round Cape Horn or pass through the Panama Canal to reach this Coast. It

The same element of stability that has The same element of stability that has kept the Dutch people against all odds a compact and impregnable nation will probably enable them to weather the present tempest that is wrecking more powerful states and kingdoms. The Dutch have never been too one-sided; though primarily a race of traders, averse to war, they are eternally prepared for it. They have never shrunk from armed conflict when no other salvation was possible, yet this is not their pride. They know that through commerce, trade, industry and a constant struggle with the encroaching sea they have laid the have in fact rendered all other coast defenses useless so far as our principal cities are concerned.

Tet there are many places outside of the streat cities where a hostile force could land if there were no force to oppose them. Almost all, if not all, of these points are connected by rail with the interior, and our preparation for defense should consist of the organization and mobilization of an army greater in number and better equipped than any that could be sent from beyond seas, and so located that it could be placed at the point invaded simultaneously with the landing of the enemy.

Lieut, Lynch regards the Atlantic and Gulf States as practically immune from attack if an army is mobilized sufficient to protect its coast, but he claims that the estination to be met on the Pacific Coast is entirely different, and that the peculiar geographic conditions of the Pacific Coast States expose us to a danger which would be little short of a great national disaster. Lieut, Lynch adds:

"The resorrablic articulation of these States with the rest of the Union' is artificial. Advice to Writers.

[The Strand:] Robert W. Chambers gave this advice to the beginner some years ago and it holds good today: and it holds good today:

"Have something to say and learn by experience how to say it. The important thing, to be sure, is something to say. The trouble with most people who try to write stories is that they have nothing to write about. Next, don't talk about it; do it. A writer can make his own market.

"It is the only way to do. Write what appeals to you and find a publisher who will take it. Don't go to a publisher and ask him what he wants. Make him want what you have to offer. If it is the real thing you won't have much difficulty. You will break into print' with your first and ask of the control of

we are of a musical family out our way.

My brother plays slide trombone, pinochle and bull fiddle in the Silver Cornet Band, and he also has such a fine voice that he had no trouble getting a job with the Singer sewing machine people. I have a cousin that was one of the original nine hundred girls composing the Florodora sextette. I myself have always been crasy about music—that is, people thought I was crasy, although they might not all blame it upon the music. Even as a child I was a brilliant performer on the jewsharp. I would often go to sleep with this fascinating little instrument clenched between my teeth and I played so much that my face got all pressed out of shape. When I talked people thought I had a hars lip. I looked as if I had been stung by a petulant hornet. Afterward I had a harmonica, a concertina and a guitar and I tried playing on two or three instruments at once—after the fashion of the "one-man band." In this way I got so that I could almost instantly get rid of any unattractive company we had in the house. If it were announced that the child wonder would now play "Listen to the Mocking Bird" all those present would begin to hunt their hats and make for the door. Even the tramps learned to shun the place. And so time passed.

Withip the last few weeks our present household had thought some of taking on a new planc. The old one has about exhausted its powers. Part of the time we have—been using it as a work-beach and someone has been driving nails in it. Also the St. Bernard pup has been gnawing the hind legs in the mistaken belief that they were soup bones. The last time we had in a plano tuner he said that what we really needed was a plumber or blacksmith. There was a histus of four notes in the fourth octave from the bone end, and whenever wa played Beethoven everybody blamed it onto Warmer—not the one, who wrote "Lohengrin," but the man who made rajiway cars. So it was tacitly agreed that a new instruments. The puzzle didn't seem to be so dreadful difficult, either. After studying it p off that way. To give away pianos as they proposed seemed almost like a work of charity.

But, anyway, it was the piano man's lookout. If he wanted to throw away his instrument in that manner it was his business. We should worry.

So we fixed up a neat littile answer for his conundrum and sent it away.

Some ten days later there was a stealthy knock at the door.

No; it wasn't the expressman with the piano. It was the mail man with a letter, it appeared that we were to be highly favored. Of course the big prize had gone elsewhere, but the piano man explained that our answer was so clever and so attractively presented that they had voted us a credit slip of $33. With that and $207 in real money we could call at their place at any hour within the next month and bear away in triumph one of their magnificent $300 planos. It was splendid. I was about to accept this unselfsh offer when the village knocker tried to tell me that the overhead charge on a $300 plano was something like $190, and if there was no commission or other salesmanship expense to pay, the dealer would still be ahead on the deal.

So I went down and told the man that we had changed our minds a trifle. Instead of the plano we would take an $30 graphophone. There would still be $12 coming to us, but we would throw that off or take a few records for it.

Then the dealer explained to me that his proposition was put up by the plano manufacturers alone. They were behind it and it concerned their wares only. Even the stem, winding, anglest and the shook hands during a recent visit to says he did. Speak, that he shook hands during a recent visit to says he did. proposition was put up by the plane manufacturers alone. They were behind it and it concerned their wares only. Even the stem-winding, self-starting instruments were not supposed to be included in the affair, but if I really wanted to get one of their famous $500 players he would strain a point and still allow me the full value of the certificate. Or if a friend of mine wanted to use it he would accept it just the same and allow me $10 to boot. That really seemed fair enough, but I was not enjoying the great American sport of getting something for nothing. So I said I would wait.

A few days later another eminent plane house come out with a most intricate puzzle. A blind Esquimau could not possibly solve it. The wild man of Borneo would have to study it for weeks before he could make it out. But ordinary white folks might assemble it by looking it steadily in the eye for as much as three seconds. Here was a chance to get a real plane, it was explained.

We took the chance.

Plained.

We took the chance.

Later we received a richly-engraved credit slip for $127. With that certificate and $223 in standard currency we could drag away one of their celebrated planos that had charmed all the crowned heads of Europe—until they got to scrapping with one another. But it was insisted that the order could not be used for any other purpose. I couldn't swap it for $30 worth of sheet music, or a fiddle or a concertina.

Following fast came two other offers fully as attractive. Some of the puzzles were hard to solve unless you looked at them twice, but as we had plenty of time we made them out and sent them in. Twice more were we signally favored. One house sent us a beautiful certificate good for $154 in trade—on a $450 plano—and the other went the limit of $197. All I had to do was to put up $303 in yellow gold and I could scoot away with the swellest $500 instrument that was ever assembled. I went down to look at it. The plano man led me reverently into a room where a richly-polished mahogany affair was being unpacked. "That piano," he said, "has more music in it than any instrument in the world." "How is that?" inquired I, still unaffected. "Because it has never been played," he said, with real pathos.

"Well: I'll not break its record," said I, pathos.

"Well; I'll not break its record," said I, turning away.

Attorney Thomas A. Berkibile was spokesman for the delegations and suggested that the matter was brought before the board in time to permit of a thorough investigation of the plan to establish the sewer farm, before the petition for the same had been granted.

An affidavit from officials of the Monterey Land Company was introduced by the attorney, setting forth that a member of the Board of City Trustees of South Pasadena had represented that the tract he was purchasing, was for use of a country club, just being formed. It developed only a few weeks ago that the land was intended as an outlet of the sewage of a part of Pasadena, of South Pasadena and Alhambra.

Deputy County Counsel Hill was instructed to ascertain the rights of the communities planning the farm and other technicalities that may be involved, before the Board of Supervisors should commit itself to a policy in the matter. Republic.

One of the most novel acts that has ever been seen on the local vaudeville stage is the offering of the De Barrs, which tops the programme that opened yesterday at the Republic Theater. There are several flowing fountains used in the stage setting, and after some unusual juggling feats the performers seize these fountains sind toss them around in a spectacular manner.

The classic dances of Du Nord wina "Martyres of The Alamo" "THE DISCIPLE" Sinish that increases the applause.

The operatic selections of Campbell and Greenwood are finding favor, while their character songs are clever and prove good for several encores. Dayton and Maley furnish the principal comedy on the bill with their humorous sketch, "The Doughnut Hunters." As a policeman and a "bum" they get off a lot of new patter that pleases the house.

The Roman Trio in songs and instrumental selections are well received.

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for November 20th this phase of the war is covered in an interesting way. Direct translations from the German press for and against peace are given, and the American reader is enabled to sense the feeling of the German people as reflected in their newspapers. One editor who is not altogether friendly to Germany has described her as being in the position of a "poker player, who, after a run of luck, is anxious to get out of the game while the majority of the chips on the table lie before him."

URIC ACID POISINS LOS ANGELES PEOPLE

Yesterday at The Sun Drug Co.'s Store on Broadway and Fifth St. (The Green Front Store) Dr. Pierce's personal representative met many people. All had stories to tell of suffering from kidney trouble, rheumatism and other misery caused by uric acid.

Many there were who came into see the An-uric representative, who told of suffering before the days when An-uric was known, but who have used this mighty remedy and found it to be more beneficial than any medicine heretofore found. They said An-uric is the only medicine that gave me a return of perfect health after years of chronic backache, dizzy spells and rheumatism. They praised An-uric because it left no bad results—did not upset the stomach and was so mild and harmless in every way—but it did drive out uric scid.

I CURE

WITHOUT an OPERATION By MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to others.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antisentic conditions in my office.

it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.

I keep a trained lady nurse constantly on duty in my office for the convenience and comfort of lady patients.

climan Topham said he believes that the report will assist materially in fixing the blame for existing conditions in the downtown district.

One of the ordinances asked by the Chief provides that he may order automatic sprinklets placed in basements in the hazardous district and the other gives the Chief the right of entry to any building other than a private dwelling and provides that he may order improvements that may be necessary to reduce the fire hazard. These proposed ordinances were referred to the Public Safety Committee.
